Yad Tomech's gemilus chessed, acts of kindness are offered to anybody who requires it, wealthy and needy alike. Be it in joyous times, when a new baby is born or chas v'shalom when there is an illness. This also extends to women on bed rest, recovering from an operation or when one spouse has to shoulder the entire family responsibilities for a short or long term. In all these situations a woman needs rest and recuperation but the questions arise: How will I cope? Who will look after the other children? Who will do the shopping? Who will cook? Who will clean? Who will help the children with their homework?
